India and Japan are among the largest Asian economies. They are, in many respects, natural trading partners with an economic compatibility that holds great potential. With the significant trade and investment flows between the two countries, it has become increasingly important for investors to protect their investments in the respective jurisdictions, and have recourse to robust dispute resolution mechanisms. In this webinar, experts in Indian and Japanese transactions and dispute resolution will provide guidance and first-hand perspectives to help both Indian and Japanese companies enhance their business relationships and further trade and investment among the two countries.
